THE VIRGINIA GIRL

Tribute to Her Loveliness by an Appreciative Virginia Gentleman.

He was a magnificent type of the real blue blooded Virginian, and when a member of the little party with which he was chatting in a corner asked him, "What of the Virginia girl?" a delicious flush of prideful color warmed his face, and he made a reply striking and beautiful.

"The Virginia girl is now as her mother and grandmother were before her. She is fitted by nature and trained by education to be the wife of a strong and brave man and a mother of sturdy boys and virtuous girls. She is not made up of watery elements, though her voice is ever soft, gentle and low. She says 'father' and 'mother' in dutiful tones, and yesternight when, like the Lady Christabel,

"Her gentle limbs did she undress, And lay down in her loveliness, she said 'Our Father who art in heaven' reverently, confidently and trustfully. A Christian she is, with no more doubt of her faith than that the sun shines. Chaste she is, without knowledge or suspicion of evil. Simple she is, and ignorant and heedless of the great world, where wealth and position are the guinea stamp that makes effulgent hearts as false and as black as hell, and when she marries, as marry she does, she will do her husband good, and not evil, all the days of her life.

"Slender she is, with the correct line of beauty, lithe and graceful. Her hand is not exactly small, for it has wielded the rolling pin. Neither is her foot small, but it is an honest foot—a foot light enough and a step trim enough to dash the dew from heather flowers; a foot eloquent, not like Cressida's, but eloquent of surety; a foot to twirl in any scottische or cotillon, to cut the pigeon wing or tread the mazes of the reel or execute the shuffle of the Irish jig.

"Nor has her education been neglected. She was a student and Vassar a year or so, and her father's library contains some sterling books, as does nearly every home in old Virginia. There is a piano, too, and the Virginia girl is perhaps at her best when, with voice like a night-ingale's and eyes like a Hebe's, she sings with the accompaniment of the simple ballads her grandmother sang."—Chicago Tribune.

Exquisite Workmanship.

Otto Young & Co. of Chicago have in their store a watchmaker's bench which with the lathe and other attachments is valued at $900. The bench alone is worth $470. It was made by Frank Sell, who was until about 16 months ago engaged in the jewelry business in Elkhardt, Ind.

The top of the bench, in the center of which is inserted a glass plate, is of hard woods, the pieces being accurately joined. Woods from almost every part of the world have been used in the work.

The sides are of mahogany, the edges being ornamented with rows of alternate black and white diamond shaped pieces of wood. On one end is carved an American eagle and the maker's name. The other panel shows a dog of the pointer breed, reproduced in black and white wood.

The lathe, chucks and power were made especially for this bench and are of the finest material. The bench is plentifully supplied with drawers and covers, the edges of which are ornamented with diamond shaped blocks of black and white wood.—Jewelers' Weekly.

She Did Some Shopping.

A Tennessee woman has a quilt made of 3,122 pieces, no two of which are alike. What an inveterate shopper she must have been in her day, and how often must she have made use of that time honored proverbialism, "I was looking, not for myself, but for a friend," to secure a sample from the overworked shopkeeper!—Boston Transcript.

A Large Sum for a Library Table.

Flimsy Affair.

PORTLAND, July 28.—The Union banking company assigned today.

A SLIGHT RUN.

Notice on doors saying owing to withdrawal of deposits and inability to make collections bank closed. F. Hackney is appointed assignee. None of bank officers could be found and statement could be obtained. Bank did a small business.

It was incorporated about two years ago with capital stock of one hundred thousand, by H. A. Hogue, J. A. Child and R. E. Earhart. A small run was made this morning on the Merchant's National bank. It was promptly met by the bank. It is thought the crisis is now past in this city.

Private advices at Salem and communications from this office by telephone shows there is no excitement at Portland, no runs on any other banks and no occasion for even a rumor as to the stability of the better class of banking institutions.

Gold Coming Home.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The large orders given by the New York financial houses for gold abroad to be imported is regarded at the treasury department as a favorable symptom of returning confidence. Much gold now coming here is same that was exported several months ago. The heavy shipment of American cereals abroad within the past two months has materially reduced balance trade against the United States.

More Certificates.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Clearing house committee issued two millions clearing house certificates up to noon. Total now outstanding, twenty-five and a quarter millions.

Wheat Lowest in History.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Everything traded in on the board of trade is weak today, chiefly on account of the action of the associated banks as to loaning of clearing house certificates, operators believing it portended fears of financiers of further and increased monetary stringency. The wheat market is touching the lowest point recorded in the history of the board of trade. Sept. dropped to 62½.

Great English Strike.

LONDON, July 28.—The great miners' federation strike was inaugurated today in most pits. About 350,000 men directly affected. No disorder so far.

A Montana Bank.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 28.—First National bank failed this morning owing to Helena bank suspensions. Assets much above liabilities, it is believed it will soon resume.

Strike on Bull Run Line.

GRESHAM, Or., July 28.—Fifty-six riveters on the pipe line struck for an increase of 50 cents per day. The men claim they were to receive $3.50 per day, but when they were paid off Tuesday night they were only allowed $3 per day, hence the strike. The teamsters are sulky, claiming that they too were promised $2.50 per day and only allowed $2. It is more than probable that they too will strike in the morning.

Forest Fires.

MILWAUKEE, July 28.—Bulletin from Medford, Wis., Prentice Junction, Wis., and Fildel, Wis., say these towns are wiped out by forest fires. Medford has a population of 1890, Prentice and Fildel 1000 each. Loss at Fildel is reported to be $200,000. Insurance light, 34 buildings were consumed.

It is learned the fire at Prentice was confined to timber. No buildings burned. Fire at Fildel started in a shed back of the Clifton House. Among the structures destroyed are four hotels, two general stores, saloons, restaurants, etc.

Officers in Charge.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Comptroller Ekeles has placed the National Banks that failed yesterday in the hands of bank examiners as follows: Examiner Weightman in charge of Oregon National at Portland, Oregon. Flynn, Ellensburg National, of Ellensburg, Washington.

DENVER, July 28.—Denver Hardware Company failed for large amount. No statement.

Battle With Flames.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—A thirty-six day battle with flames was ended tonight by the arrival of the British ship Cedar Bank from Newcastle, New South Wales. The vessel started March 3d and was laden with coal and had a fair voyage until June 20th, when her cargo was discovered on fire. Prompt efforts to extinguish the flames proved unavailing and it was decided to jettison a part of the cargo. Two hundred and sixty tons were thrown overboard and then, owing to the extreme heat in the hold and the great difficulty in handling the burning coal, it was necessary to desist. Large quantities of water were thrown into the hold, the pumps part of the time going day and night.

On July 16th two explosions occurred and the flames burst out and ran all over the hold. The hatches were kept battened down as much as possible. The crew were obliged on account of the heat to abandon their quarters in the forecabin and go aft. The boats were provisioned and towed astern for an emergency. One day another boat hove in sight but passed without seeing the Cedar Bank's signals of distress. The fire continued to make headway and the decks, sides, ventilators and all parts of the vessel became very much heated, and smoke poured from the hatches and other crevices. Port was finally made tonight. The vessel will be beached.

BITS OF FINANCIAL NEWS.

PORTLAND, July 28.—A cent m n familiar with county finances said that up to a week or ten days ago Sheriff Kelly had collected about $800,000, of which about $400,000 had been paid over to the county treasurer and deposited in another bank. The sheriff's bond is for $400,000, with George B. Markle and E. B. McFarland as bondsmen. The county treasurer has paid $190,000 to the state treasurer, and had disbursed probably $50,000 in paying warrants. There is more or less criticism on the court for not having kept closer track of the county finances.

A private dispatch was received in this city that the Ellensburg (Wash.) National bank had closed its doors. No statement of assets and liabilities. George B. Markle is also president of this bank.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The silver millions in the San Francisco mint have been counted under the direction of Superintendent Dugger and the accounts of retiring Superintendent Diamond found to be correct. Silver on hand is as follows: In three vaults, $35,750,000. Vault D contains 8,424 bars of silver, weighing 11,348,971 ounces. The small vault in the registering room has $60,000 in dimes and $550,000 in twenty-five cent pieces. About $9,000,000 in gold are yet to be counted.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Among the numerous reports that tended to firm things up in Wall street yesterday the most important was the engagement of $1,000,000 in gold in London by Lazard Freres and a further drop in the rates of sterling exchange.

SPARTA, Wis., July 28.—M. A. Thayer's bank and the Bank of Sparta closed. The liabilities of the former are $175,000; assets $225,000. Liabilities of the latter are $210,000; assets $300,000.

WALTHAM, Mass., July 28.—The employees of the American-Waltham Watch company the biggest watch producing firm in the world, were startled by the announcement that when the factory starts up August 7, after a five weeks shut down, only half of the employees will be given work. Following the announcement of yesterday that the Elgin company would do the same thing the employees feel rather discouraged.

A HOME RULE RIOT

In the British House of Parliament.

LIBERALS AND CONSERVATIVES FIGHT

Then Make Up and Pass the Bill to Final Reading.

LONDON, July 28.—There was a regular row in the house of commons last night, the scene enacted there being unprecedented in parliamentary history. Ten o'clock was the hour set for closure of debate in the committee on the home rule bill. Joseph Chamberlain arose to deliver the final broadside of the opposition. He was still smarting under the lashing administered by Gladstone Tuesday evening and spoke with much bitterness, giving his opinion of closure as applied by the government. He was frequently interrupted by jeers from the Irish and cheers from his own side. After one period of interruption, he proceeded:

"The prime minister calls Black and his adherents and they say it is good. He calls White and they say it is better. It is always the voice of God. Never since the time of Herod, has there been such—"

Chamberlain got no further, for with his half finished reference to Herod there came from the nationalists such a roar of indignation as had not been heard in the commons since the time of Parnell. T. P. O'Connor sprang to his feet and, leaning toward Chamberlain, shouted, "Judas." The rest of the Irishmen took up the cry and shouted "Judas" in chorus. Chairman Mellor tried to put the closure but his voice could not be heard.

Then everybody started for the front bench. Unionists shouted "Jag." Others struggled in the aisles or between the benches with radical, liberal or Irish antagonists. Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat down over his eyes and as soon as Tim got it off he jumped into the aisle in fighting posture just as Hanbury was knocked over the bench by the force of the collision. A free fight then broke out at the gateway, led by William Redmond. Blows were struck right and left. The whole space between the front benches was filled with a struggling, mass of members, striking, clawing and upsetting each other.

Finally Gladstone begged Major Edward I. Banks, a sturdy liberal, to help stop the affair. Major Banks dug his way through the belligerents, and, by dint of appeals in the name of the premier, succeeded in stemming the conflict.

Gladstone, sitting upright, had surveyed the whole scene with an inflamed face and an expression of sorrow, indignation and astonishment which will never be effaced from the minds of those who viewed him. Chairman Mellor sent for Speaker Peel and when that gentleman arrived several conservatives pointed to Gladstone and exclaimed: "There sits the author of it all." Finally the speaker appealed to the party leaders to tell him what had occurred. Gladstone said he regretted that neither his eyes nor his ears enabled him to give a very clear account of the affair. He then gravely described the events as related to him by his lieutenants and expressed the opinion that a division should be taken before the "Judas" incident should be considered. Balfour told his side of the story as related to him by his men, he having been absent when the row occurred.

Speaker Peel decided that the expression alleged to have been used was the original cause of the disorder. He felt certain that it was used in the heat and irritation of the moment and if the gentleman were to say he regretted it, it would be his (the speaker's) duty to take no further notice of the affair. O'Connor then apologized to the speaker. This was received with cheers.

The uproar began again, however, and another riot was threatened, but the speaker succeeded in subduing it. Then Mellor resumed the chair. The various remaining clauses of the home rule bill were carried. When the committee arose and Chairman Mellor reported to Speaker Peel the home rule bill as amended in the committee there was a grand outburst of cheering and hats were waved for Gladstone. The report stage was fixed for August 7.

More Chinese Smuggling.

NEW YORK, July 28.—There was another clash in the custom-house between local customs officials and Special Treasury Agent Scharf over the alleged smuggling of Chinese into this port. The letter of July 15th addressed by Mr. Scharf to his immediate superior, Col. L. M. Montgomery, and forwarded by him to the secretary of the treasury, which, with the other information caused the treasury department to cancel the power of the collector to certify to Chinese return certificates with the signature of his deputy and the seal of the collector was the point under discussion. Mr. Scharf, in his report, charged that the whole proceeding of examining Chinese for admission at this port was a farce, and that bribery was resorted to in order to effect an entrance for such as had no legal right to land. He believed many Chinese had been smuggled into the country since the work had been reduced to a system by syndicates of Chinese, who made a profit of $200 on each of their countrymen safely landed here.

The world says that, in pursuing the investigation of the ground of discussion between Chinese Inspector of the treasury J. Thomas Scharf and the customs officers of this port, it was discovered that an organized conspiracy exists to smuggle Chinamen into this country whose entry is forbidden, that the Geary law is practically inoperative, that scores of Chinese laborers, clear-makers, laundrymen and gamblers have been smuggled into the port of New York alone under the guise of actors and merchants.

Indian Fight.

OMAHA, July 28.—For some time the Indian soldiers stationed at Fort Omaha have been in the habit of raiding the orchards near the fort. Yesterday sixteen redskins, led by High Eagle, a chief of considerable fame in the Sioux nation, took possession of several trees in J. V. Vickory's orchard. He got a double-barreled shotgun and fired among the Indians. Several were struck by the shot, and Chief High Eagle fell, mortally wounded. The Indians drew their revolvers and the farmer retreated to the house. The Indians surrounded the house, prepared to attack it in front and rear. Just then A. N. Hanson, a well known scout, dashed up from the front and, with a revolver in each hand, called upon the excited redskins to quit the premises. They knew Hanson to be a terrible fighter and they scattered for a few minutes. Before they resumed their attack, however, further assistance came from the fort, and the farmer was saved from the vengeance of the Indians. He was placed under arrest.

Kentucky Failure.
